

2014 Budget Overview
Dripping Springs Community Library District

The Dripping Springs Community Library District (the "District") is a political subdivision of the State of Texas duly created pursuant to Chapter 326 of the Local Government Code (Vernon Supp. 1999). The purpose of the District is to manage the assets of the district and oversee the Dripping Springs Community Library for the purpose of enlightenment, enrichment, information, creativity and recreation of the community. Its mission is to ensure community library services within its boundaries, being that portion of the Dripping Springs Independent School District which is within Hays County. The Dripping Springs Community Library provides the people of the district with access to a balanced collection of books and other materials which will serve their cultural, educational and recreational needs. The District budget is planned and executed for one calendar year at a time.

The district budget is resourced by the array of sources depicted below:

The .0025 sales tax rate (¼ of one percent) yields by far the largest amount of library revenue. Other sources include support from Hays County, miscellaneous donations and fees, fundraising by the Friends of the Library, and the interest on invested funds.

The chart on the following page is organized to depict the allocation of the 2014 DSCLD budget. The budget elements begin at the twelve o'clock position on the pie chart and proceed clockwise in order, beginning with the heart of library activity, Collection Development. The major elements of expense (over 1%) are described in greater detail.

Collection expenses comprised 14% of the 2014 budget. This activity included expenses for collection of books, CDbooks, eBooks, eAudio Books, MP3s, DVDs, and magazine subscription expenses.
